MARQUIS W10SW10®

ROBERT E. FISCHELL, SCD

Physicist

swhov sWho osWho osWhosW whosW whosy whosy owhos noWho	1929 Born to Philip Fischell and Julia (Ellentuch) Fischell in New York, NY.	Earns a B.S. in mechanical engineering, cum laude, from Duke University and a M.S. in physics from the University of Maryland in 1953.	1959 Begins working within the Space Department of the Applied Physics Laboratory at The Johns Hopkins University (JHU).	1959 Is the principal staff physicist, assistant head and chief of technology transfer, full time, within JHU/APL through 1997.	1963 Is named an Outstanding Young Engineer in the Washington Capital Area.	1969 Serves as the founder and director of Pacesetter Systems, Inc. (now St. Jude Medical, Inc. CRMD), through 1986.	1980 1980: Receives the NASA Exceptional Engineering Award for the MAGSAT satellite.	Receives the NASA Individual Achievement Award for the Human Tissue Stimulator.	1984 Earns the U.S. "Inventor of the Year Award" presented in the U.S. Senate Caucus Room, Capitol Hill in April.	1985 Maintains his roles within JHUAPL, part-time, continuing his work as a project scientist on more than 25 orbiting spacecraft through 1997.
	1929	1951	1959	1959	1963	1969	1980	1982	1984	1985
WhoWi WhoW sWhoV osWho osWho hosWi WhosW	1995 Receives an honorary Doctor of Science from the University of Maryland.	Serves as the founder and former chairman of NeuroPace Inc.	1998 Is a consultant for ardinal Health Inc., arough 2007 and is co-designer of the Cordis/J&J Cypher stent and Abbott Labs Xience stent.	2000 Is chairman emeritus of and a consultant for NeuroPace Inc. and presently maintains these roles.	2001 Is the founder and	Works as founder, former chairman and CEO of eNeura Inc. through 2014.	2008 Receives an Honorary D.H.L	2014 Serves as the founder, CTO and chairman of Zygood, LLC and presently maintains these roles.	2016 Receives the National Medal for Technology and In- novation, presented	2018 Serves as the founder and president of EZ-On EZ-Off, LLC and presently maintains these roles.

A Timeline of Professional Milestones