

Dr. Guymon is born in Farmington, New Mexico to Leland W. and Grace E. Guymon.

Dr. Guymon becomes an engineer for the California Department of Water Resources in Los Angeles.

Dr. Guymon receives a Bachelor of Science from the University of California Davis.

Dr. Guymon receives a Master of Science from the University of California Davis.

Dr. Guymon becomes an assistant research engineer at the University of California Davis.

Dr. Guymon receives a Doctor of Philosophy from the University of California Davis.

Dr. Guymon becomes an associate professor at the University of Alaska Fairbanks.

1935

1955

1966

1967

1969

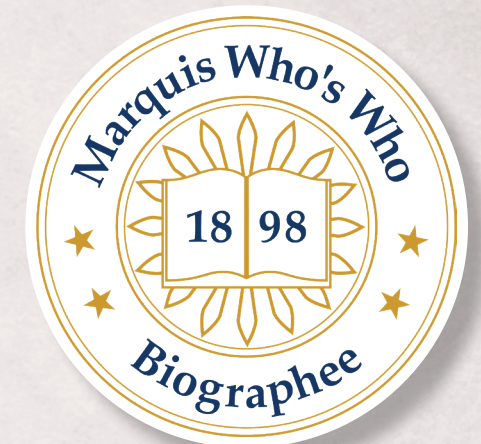

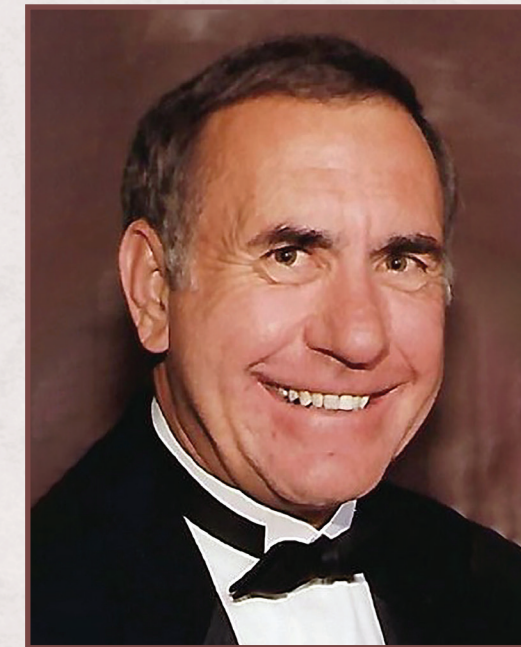

1970

1971

Gary L. Guymon Sr., PhD

Civil Engineering Educator

A timeline of professional milestones

1974

1981

1981

1984

1988

1994

1994

Dr. Guymon becomes a full professor at the University of California Irvine.

Dr. Guymon co-authors "Results from a Mechanical Model of Frost Heave" published in the Transportation Research Record journal.

Dr. Guymon serves as associate editor of the Advances in Water Resources journal.

Dr. Guymon is appointed chairman of the Department of Civil Engineering at the University of California Irvine.

Dr. Guymon marries Lucinda A. Kenmis.

Dr. Guymon authors "Unsaturated Zone Hydrology."

Dr. Guymon becomes Professor Emeritus at the University of California Irvine.