

Dr. Holstein is born in Youngstown, Ohio to Edgar R. and Eleanor Holstein.

Dr. Holstein receives a Bachelor of Science in physics from the Carnegie Institute of Technology of Carnegie Mellon University.

Dr. Holstein marries Carolyn Morrow.

Dr. Holstein receives a Master of Science in physics from the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Dr. Holstein receives a Doctor of Philosophy in physics from Carnegie Mellon University.

Dr. Holstein becomes a physics instructor at Princeton University.

1943

1965

1966

1967

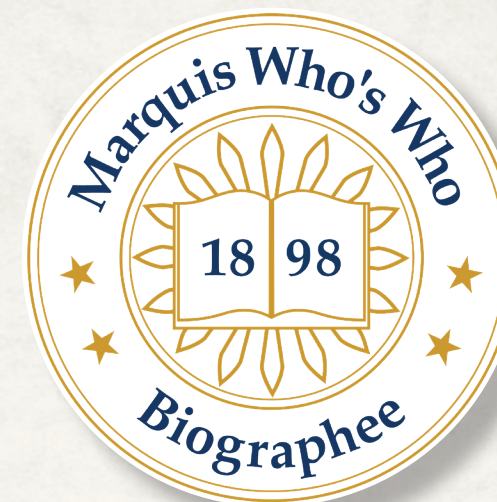

1969

1969

BARRY R. HOLSTEIN

Physicist

A timeline of professional milestones

1971

1974

1975

1977

1979

1997

Dr. Holstein becomes an assistant professor of physics at the University of Massachusetts Amherst.

Dr. Holstein is promoted to associate professor of physics at the University of Massachusetts Amherst.

Dr. Holstein serves as a visiting fellow at Princeton University.

Dr. Holstein becomes a program officer for theoretical physics at the National Science Foundation in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Holstein is promoted to full professor of physics at the University of Massachusetts Amherst.

Dr. Holstein becomes an Alexander von Humboldt Senior Fellow.