

Dr. Korn is born in New York, New York to Nathaniel and Florence Korn.

Dr. Korn receives a Bachelor of Science in mathematics from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute (RPI).

Dr. Korn marries Susan Lyn Weiner.

Dr. Korn becomes fellow of the National Science Foundation.

Dr. Korn receives a Doctor of Philosophy in mathematics from the Courant Institute of Mathematical Studies in New York.

Dr. Korn becomes a research associate at New York University.

Dr. Korn is promoted to senior research scientist at New York University.

Dr. Korn co-authors "Supercritical Wing Sections," as well as its third edition, written in 1976.

Dr. Korn becomes a Member of Technical Staff at Bell Laboratories in Holmdel, New Jersey.

1942

1965

1967

1968

1969

1969

1971

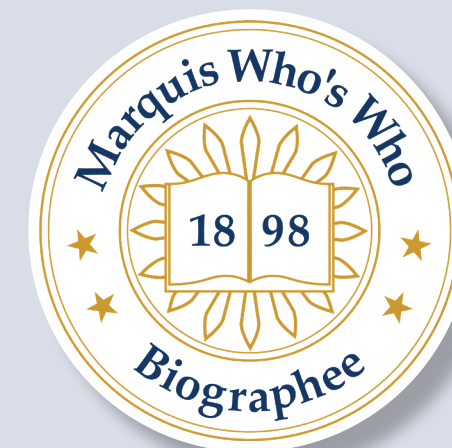

1973

1976

DAVID GERARD KORN

Computer Scientist | Researcher

A timeline of professional milestones

1976

1978

1980

1981

1984

1986

1988

1993

2014

Dr. Korn receives the Special Achievement Award from NASA.

Dr. Korn is promoted to supervisor at Bell Laboratories.

Dr. Korn becomes an adjunct professor of computer science at New York University.

Dr. Korn becomes a Member of Technical Staff at AT&T Bell Laboratories in Murray Hills, New Jersey.

Dr. Korn becomes a Distinguished Member of Technical Staff at AT&T Bell Laboratories.

Dr. Korn becomes a fellow of AT&T Bell Laboratories.

Dr. Korn co-authors "Korn Shell Language," which was most widely used by nearly one million people.

Dr. Korn becomes a research associate at AT&T Laboratories.

Dr. Korn becomes a research associate at Google.