

Dr. Moffet is born in Monmouth, Illinois to Victor Logue and Helen Moffet.

Dr. Moffet receives a Bachelor of Arts from Harvard University.

Dr. Moffet serves as a Captain in the United States Army Reserve.

Dr. Moffet receives a Doctor of Medicine from Yale University.

Dr. Moffet becomes an instructor at Bowman Gray School of Medicine (now Bowman Gray Center for Medical Education) in Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Dr. Moffet becomes an assistant professor at Northwestern University.

Dr. Moffet is appointed Head of the Division of Infectious Diseases at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago, Illinois.

1932

1953

1953

1957

1957

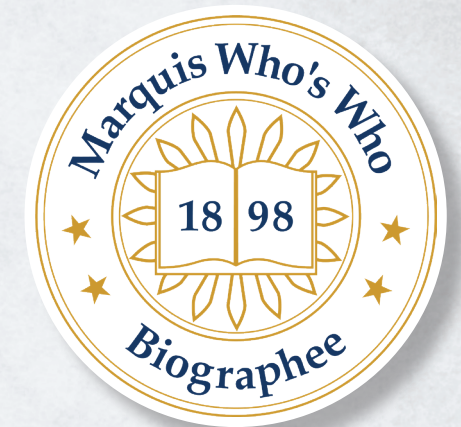

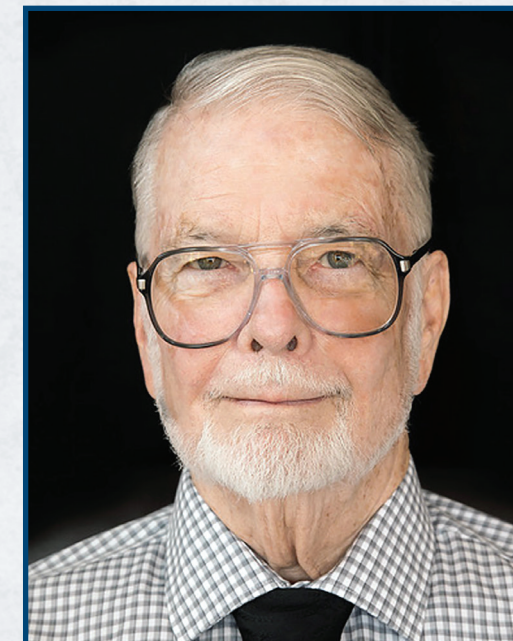

1963

1963

HUGH LAMSON MOFFET, MD

Pediatrician (Retired)

A timeline of professional milestones

1968

1971

1975

1975

1984

2005

2012

2019

Dr. Moffet is promoted to associate professor at Northwestern University.

Dr. Moffet becomes an associate professor at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Dr. Moffet is promoted to full professor at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Dr. Moffet authors "Pediatric Infectious Diseases" and "Clinical Microbiology."

Dr. Moffet marries Donna Mae Pienschke.

Dr. Moffet authors "Moffet's Pediatric Infectious Diseases."

Dr. Moffet authors his autobiography "A Dissident Doctor."

Dr. Moffet co-authors "Moffet's Board Review for Pediatric Infectious Diseases."