

Mr. Seymour is born in San Francisco, California to Arnold Burt-Oakley and Florence Marguerite Seymour.

Mr. Seymour begins freelance writing in Sausalito, California.

Mr. Seymour receives a Bachelor of Arts in English to Sonoma State University.

Mr. Seymour receives a Master of Arts in English and comparative literature with an emphasis on creative writing from Sonoma State University.

Mr. Seymour becomes a coordinator and administrator at the College of Medocino in Boonville, California.

Mr. Seymour becomes business manager of Haight Ashbury Free Clinics in San Francisco, California.

Mr. Seymour becomes executive administrator and director of training and education projects for Haight Ashbury Clinics.

Mr. Seymour becomes an assistant professor at Sonoma State University.

Mr. Seymour becomes an instructor at John F. Kennedy University.

1937

1960

1969

1970

1971

1973

1977

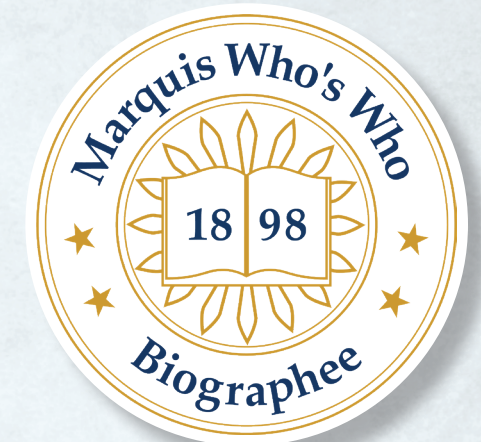

1985

1986

RICHARD B. SEYMOUR

Author | Health Educator
(Retired)

A timeline of professional milestones

1987

1988

1988

1989

1993

1997

1997

2001

2018

Mr. Seymour authors "Drug Free" and "The Physician's Guide to Psychoactive Drugs."

Mr. Seymour becomes treasurer and chairman of the board of directors of the World Drug Abuse Treatment Network.

Mr. Seymour becomes president and chief executive officer of Westwind Associates.

Mr. Seymour authors "The New Drugs."

Mr. Seymour authors "The Psychedelic Resurgence."

Mr. Seymour becomes a coordinator for the California Collaborative Center for Substance Abuse Policy Research.

Mr. Seymour authors "Compost College."

Mr. Seymour authors "Clinicians' Guide to Substance Abuse."

Mr. Seymour authors "Murder on the Dock of the Bay."